VARIABILITY OF RETURNS

The annual returns from the Fund will vary. The purpose of this section is to illustrate the extent of this potential variation in returns.

The Fund is managed so as to seek an annualised volatility of 12% and annual returns should be less volatile than those from a global fund consisting solely of equities. An investor exposed to this level of volatility might target an average annual return of 6%.

For this profile of expected return and volatility, the potential distribution of annual returns over a 40 year period is shown diagrammatically.

Returns may be expected to fall in the range of -6% to +18% in around 26 years out of 40. An annual decline in Fund value greater than 18% would be expected once in forty years.

There is no guarantee that the long term average return of the fund will be as high as 6% or that volatility will not exceed 12%.

This table details the expected distribution of annual returns produced by a fund generating a long term annualised return of 6% with annualised volatility of 12%.

The y axis is the number of years during a 40 year period which the return would be expected to fall within the specified ranges.
